ZWINGLIAN ANNIVERSARY

PLAY, "SIGN ON THE DOOR"

PRESENTED FRIDAY EVE.

Anniversary Play Well Attended in Thompson-Gay Theatre

PARTS WELL PLAYED

Zwilingian Literary Society celebrated her fifty-eighth anniversary on Friday evening, March 23, by presenting "The Sign on the Door," by Channing Pollock. The Thompson-Gay Theatre was charmingly decorated in blue. Many alumni and friends of the College were present and helped make the occasion a gala one for Zwing. Between the acts, the College Orchestra offered a variety of popular selections.

"The Sign on the Door" was decidedly different from any play that had been presented at Ursinus. The action was quick except for the beginning of Act II. The scene is laid in New York. The Prologue is in a private supper room at the Cafe Mazarin, where Ann Hunniwell, ignorant of the sort of place she is visiting, comes with Devereaux and is arrested with him in a raid. Act I takes place at Regan's house in New Rochelle just outside New York, five years later, after Ann has married "Lafe" Regan and becomes step mother of Helen Regan who continues her friendship with Devereaux against her mother's advice. Acts II and III are in Devereaux's room at the Ritz where Mrs. Regan comes to save Helen and hides when Mr. Regan comes to settle with Devereaux. He shoots Devereaux in self defense and Mrs. Regan insists that she is guilty of the murder. Mr. Regan confesses when he hears that his wife has been accused. The sign which Regan tacked on the outside of the door before he locked it and left, proves that Mrs. Regan, who is locked in the room, is innocent. The appearance of Helen verifies Mrs. Regan's statement that she came there to save Helen. The play ends with satisfaction for the main characters if Regan's acquittal is taken for granted. "The Sign on the Door" was thought-provoking and presented a problem that must not be shunned.

The performance was a credit to Mr. and Mrs. Sheeder who coached the play. Mr. William H. Williams as Frank Devereaux handled a difficult role with ability. This is a character often presented in modern fiction but seldom truthfully portrayed on the stage. "Lafe" Regan, a man of honor and firmness, stands in direct contrast

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATIVES

TALK ON ACCOUNTANCY

A number of the economics students were privileged to hear Walton L. Morgan, C. P. A., representative of the American Institute of Accountancy Wednesday night in the philosophy room. After his introduction by Professor Boswell the speaker told his audience of his early experiences in the profession. Expanding his topic informally, Mr. Morgan gave the principal functions of accountancy organizations. The managerial requirement from a knowledge of the conditions and results of business, the use of accounting in preparing operating plans and financial policies, the submission of statement, statements for credit purposes, the presentation of creditors statements in connection with mergers and consolidations are within the sphere of the accountant, he pointed out the variety of the work, the regular vacations and the opportunities for investment. College work and theoretical training should be prerequisite in addition to personal qualifications.

The talk developed into a discussion participated in by a number of aspirant accountants.

1928 RUBIES WILL BE DISTRIBUTED AFTER EASTER

Unique and Artistic Designs Feature New Annual

COVER DESIGN ATTRACTIVE

The 1928 Rubies will be ready for distribution on Tuesday, April 10, immediately after Easter vacation. As the supply has been strictly limited students should not delay purchasing their copies.

No effort has been spared to make this Ruby a worthy successor of those which have gone before, and everyone will want to own this record of college life. The 1928 Ruby is bigger and better than any of its predecessors.

From the artistic cover to the special arrangement by which the book can be used to preserve mementos of graduation, this annual is unusual and unique. The are work and feature sections have been praised by experts, and should prove interesting to all. The pictures and write-ups of college life in general are sure to attract particular interest.

The Ruby is the one method most students at Ursinus have of keeping in tangible form their memories of college days, events, and personalities and those who fail to avail themselves of this opportunity will surely regret it in the future. Underclassmen as well as upperclassmen will find this book valuable as a link in their chain of college memories.

COACH KICHLINE BANQUETS GRIZZLY BASKETBALL TEAM

As a fitting climax to a successful season Coach Ronald C. Kichline tendered a banquet to the Grizzley basketball squad last Monday evening at Highland Hall.

After the chef had done his bit and each of the captains and captain-elect Newcomer spoke "Kick" rose and presented each of the lettermen with a gold basketball as a token of his admiration for their efforts.

"THE PATSY" BY CONNERS SELECTED AS JUNIOR PLAY

"The Patsy," a clever modern comedy by Barrie Connors, has been chosen by the Juniors as their class play. It is a sparkling, unique depiction of an interesting phase of American life, bubbling over with wit and humor!

Coached by Prof. and Mrs. Franklin I. Sheeder assisted by Miss Evelyn Hamm, '28, it promises to rival any former Ursinus stage production.

It is to be given in the Thompson-Gay Theatre, Saturday night, April 28, 1928. Watch for further announcements concerning "The Patsy"!

BEAVER DEFEATS URSINUS IN LAST GAME OF YEAR

Fritsch, Hoffer, Waltman Play Last Game for Co-eds

CLOSE GAME

Captain Mabel Fritsch's court luminaries lowered the curtain on the basketball season on the home floor on Thursday, March 22, when they held the strong Beaver team 32-26.

The game was marked with brilliant playing by the members of both teams, splendid passing, and lively action, and as a result the score was a tie at the end of the first three periods of the contest. In the final minutes of play the "U" cagettes were forced to bow before Beaver's added ounce of power.

At the start of the game the ball traveled from one end of the court to the other as a result of close guarding. Then Sally McGarvey, well known for her indomitable courage and proficiency and ability to score field goals, broke away from her guard to score a field goal. Dunn registered a double decker for Beaver and the scoring began. From that time on the lead changed hands several times and the score was a tie 8-8 at end of the first quarter, 16-16 the first half and 24-24 the third period. Within a few minutes of the finish the score was 26-26, after which Hall located the basket for three pretty twin pointers to make the score 32-26 in favor of Beaver.

This was the last game for Mabel Fritsch, stellar captain and dependable guard, Sally Hoffer, sure and accurate forward, and Vivian Waltman, flashy side-center. These fair co-eds have represented Ursinus on the polished

The second has been established by W. T. Omwake, Esq., of Waynesboro, Pennsylvania, as a memorial to his parents, Henry and Eveline Beaver Omwake.

The third was founded under the will of the late Richard S. Appel, D. D., as a memorial to his son, Robert S. Appel, Ursinus '01, whose death occurred in 1906.

Two scholarships, formerly established, have been raised by additional gifts to $2,000 each. These are the Saint Paul's, Lancaster, and the Meyran scholarships.

The total number of scholarships is now 45 and the total endowment back of them is $67,700. This form of college endowment is especially needed. Many a struggling student who otherwise would become discouraged is helped over his difficulty and enabled to continue in college by the kindly though unseen hand that is stretched out to him through an endowed scholarship.

Editorial Comment

This edition of "The Weekly" brings to a close the present incumbents' career as Editor-in-Chief. A new staff and new editors will assume control of this column to attempt the almost impossible task of moulding and expressing student opinion. It is unfortunate that in most cases the students have no definite or articulate ideas to be expressed. Too often the editor is reduced to sore strait of lowering the column to an expression of his own will. It is a great pity that not more attendants at the College manifest an interest in affairs here, at least, great enough concern to put their sentiments in print for the benefit of their fellows at Ursinus.

To the new editors a field rich in prospect is opened. There are enough issues and problems in need of solution to cause weary editors many hours of study and thought. Too often these issues are not clearly seen or more often ignored. One of the aims of this column has been to formulate problems, to bring to light and discussion conditions which might be remedied. The old Ursinus is giving place to a new, that is evident, along with the numerical increase in the number of students and the changing spirit of the times, new conditions are arising. It has been the aim of the paper this year to help to conserve the good things of the past and to weave their tremendous value into the fabric of the new.

This year has shown several existing institutions on the campus to have outlived their usefulness. The Literary Societies have proven ineffective in their original purpose. It is too bad that such is the case, but to deny that such is their condition belies a knowledge of true affairs. Here is a situation which should merit the attention of the authorities. No college this size, or any size, should be without a suitable literary organization, the Societies, Zwinglian and Schaff, have fulfilled a far too valuable function in the history of Ursinus to be cast so lightly aside.

The student government has not functioned as it should, no one can deny that the present system is not all that it should be. The underlying reasons for its decay are several. The inability to do work of such a calibre to demand the respect and support of the student and the failure to act as anything except a punitive organization have lowered its dignity. This condition in government should not be allowed to continue. A committee of alumni, faculty and students should be organized to study the problem and to honestly work to effect a solution.

The crying need for reform in the social scheme at Ursinus is a matter of the greatest moment. Besides fitting the youth of the land for the highest type of intellectuality it should endeavor to aid them in regulating their social conduct. The opportunity for increasing the social contacts should be accorded to the students. Since so much emphasis is put upon the "play" in a modern American college, and less upon the "work" the men and women who attend the colleges should be taught to "play" correctly.

The lack of unifying and welding influences among the students presents another problem to administrators. The organization of a Graduate Patrons Committee in the alumni society is a great forward step. The purpose of this committee is to increase the points of contact between graduates and students. That a more thorough co-operation between the two will work wonders in the student life is very apparent.

These topics have presented themselves to the editor as pertinent and worthy of the greatest consideration. No attempt to secure the favor or approval of any interests has ever been made. The discussions have always tried to be conducted impartially with a view to bettering conditions for the good of all.

Ursinus College today needs friends, friends who will stick thru thick and thin. The College is greater than any man or group of men. It is a cause, the cause of opportunity for the youth of moderate or poor means to equip himself intellectually and socially for a life's work. It represents the cause, or should, of the liberal attitude of mind as opposed to medieval scholasticism, and the blind worship of traditions. It represents years of hard struggles, and the sacrifice and devotion of friends and benefactors. Increased loyalty to the forward-looking Ursinus, the Ursinus which will continue to serve with greater facilities than ever before will put her in the place which is rightfully hers.

To the new staff the old wishes the best of success in their endeavor. The task assigned to them is not light but there is no doubt that they can easily measure up to the standards set for them. The opportunity to secure a place on the staff is open to anyone who is willing to manifest the proper interest and to do the required work. The Weekly furnishes valuable training for those contemplating journalistic work and the practice of seeing one's thoughts in print tends towards greater proficiency in the art of writing English. Good luck to the staff of 1929.

TESTIMONIAL VOLUME IN HONOR OF DR. JAMES ANDERS

The College Library has received two copies of the richly made volume containing the addresses delivered at the testimonial dinner given in honor of Doctor James M. Anders, of Philadelphia, at the Bellevue Stratford Hotel on November 29, last. Following a splendid portrait of Dr. Anders is the presentation of the toastmaster, Provost Josiah H. Penniman of the University of Pennsylvania and his introductory remarks. Then comes a beautiful poem by Elizabeth Glendenning Ring entitled "The Tale of the Years." The addresses are by President George L. Omwake, Dr. Judson Daland, Dr. Geo. E. Pfahler, Dr. Llewellyn F. Barker, Dr. David Riesman, Dr. E. J. G. Beardsley, Hon. Franklin Spencer Edmonds, Dr. John B. Deaver, and Dr. Anders himself. The book contains also the names of the members of the General Committee, the Honorary Advisory Committee, and the guests present at the dinner. The testimonial was in celebration of the golden anniversary of Dr. Anders' entrance upon the practice of medicine. The book, therefore, properly includes many letters from men of distinction all over the country tendering congratulations and good wishes. The book is published by the General Committee of which Dr. William Duffield Robinson is chairman and to whom our Library is indebted for the two copies received.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. was delighted to have Miss Ruth Kraft of the class of '18, as her guest on Wednesday evening. Miss Kraft has spent the last few years as a teacher in a girls' school in Canton, China, and she, very interestingly, spoke of her work there. We perhaps cannot realize the chaotic situation as it really exists. In twenty years China is trying to assimilate changing conditions which took the western world centuries to accomplish, namely a renaissance, a reformation, political and social upheavals.

In many places electricity has taken the place of candles, automobiles of jinrikisha, science on one hand, man labor on the other, and how revolting it must be to the parents when the children assert their independence and freedom from the customs of time immemorial, when the boy refuses to follow in his father's trade and the girl objects to marrying the man of her parents' choice.

The young blood of Canton are enthusiasts of Sun Yat San and are filled with a desire to do something for their country, just something, they do not know what or how and devotion for China has supplanted the family worship to a great extent; and what will be their outcome. Is China strong enough to go through these changes successfully?

The girls of the Y. W. are deeply indebted to Miss Kraft for a very interesting evening and they extend a cordial invitation to her to return.

The Tower Window

THE death last week of James W. Packard, builder of the Packard car, brings to public attention his magnificent gift to Lehigh University announced some months ago. The circumstance by which Lehigh received this gift was unusual.

It seems President Richards and his associates had been dreaming of an engineering building for some time. At length through the help of two alumni of the university who are New York City architects, they got their dream worked out on paper. Dressed in an architectural outer garb not out of harmony with the other buildings on the campus, a beautiful sketch of the structure in elevation together with floor plans were wrought in picture. President Richards wrote a short statement setting forth the need of the new building and in another essay, a graphic description to go with the pictures. The description closed with this assertion: "These preliminary plans are sufficient to show that the erection of a building similar to that proposed would be a distinguished addition to the great laboratories of the world."

The cost of erection, it was estimated, would be $750,000, and the endowment necessary to maintain it would be about $300,000, making the total requirement approximately $1,000,000.

All these things were made into a handsome book in which inconspicuously appeared this challenging paragraph:

"The donor of this building, whoever he may be, will through his benefaction have the satisfaction of contributing simultaneously to the promotion of the interests of a university whose past achievements are noteworthy, to the better training of many future generations of young men for positions of leadership in the industrial world, and to the advancement of industry itself through the enlargement of the University's opportunities for the development and dissemination of knowledge."

The booklet was mailed to a selected list. One copy went to a business office in Chicago, whence came back to old Lehigh in less than two weeks, a check for the $1,000,000. The donor was not announced at the time but it became known after a while that the gift came from Mr. Packard.

Now Mr. Packard has gone from this world but Lehigh University is at work building the structure which he chose, as his happy privilege, to provide. We pause to wonder whether the other persons who received the little publication had similar thoughts but allowed this benefactor to beat them to it.

What good fortune for Mr. Packard that he received the pamphlet, read it and promptly responded! G. L. O.

CURRICULUM FREEDOM

St. Paul, Minn., March 19 (by New Student Service)—Revision of the curriculum to permit more freedom of study has been announced at Hamline College by President Alfred F. Hughes. Majors and minors have been abolished, the first and last two years of work separated, and requirements reduced in number. "Gateway" courses in the freshman and sophomore years will introduce the student to college, and thereafter he will be free to select his own subjects. The only demand is for 36 hours of concentrated study. The "gateway" courses will be liberal and varied. Particular emphasis is being placed on the junior and senior years. After caring for the demanded 36 hours, the student may browse as he pleases, or he may limit his work to one field. Provisions will be made for granting the exceptional student research facilities if he is able to carry his work beyond the limits of courses offered. Similarly, by arrangement with department heads, study may be done outside of class rooms and with no direct reference to courses.

"The National Joy Smoke" is no mere catch-phrase

YOU can prove it. Prince Albert is the Nation's largest-selling brand of pipe-tobacco. It brings joy to more smokers than any other brand. Q.E.D.! Your first fragrant whiff will set your mouth a-watering.

And your first taste of good old P.A. in a pipe will satisfy your pipe-hunger as nothing else ever has. Cool as the first period. Welcome as the last. Mellow and mild and long-burning, right to the bottom of the bowl. Try P.A., Fellows, on my say-so.

TEA DANCE HELD SAT; BENEFIT OF DORM FUND

to Devereaux, but in the crisis he loses control of his admirable poise, and he commits the murder which is justified as an action of self defense. This role was played by Mr. Krasley with his usual skill. Anne Murray as Helen Regan gave a true interpretation of the modern young woman who seeks thrills and feigns sophistication, yet is honest at heart. This was Miss Murray's first appearance on the stage at Ursinus and it was a very successful one. Henry Pyle gave a clever representation of the faithful old valet, Ferguson. He succeeded in introducing comedy and humor, which, although mingled with pathos, broke the tenseness of the situation. Lois Nickel gave rare charm and dignity to the role of Mrs. Regan. With much experience and many successful appearances to her credit, Miss Nickel gave a performance which is a fitting culmination of her dramatic career at Ursinus. The other members of the cast were Hugh, a waiter, and "Bud" Whiting, the District Attorney, Joseph Armento; Captain Burke, William McGarvey; newspaper photographer and Officer McLoughlin, Joel Francis; Alan Churchill, Sherwood Peters; Marjorie Blake, Charlotte Berger; Bates, James W. Donaldson; "Kicy" Callahan, Robert Weller; Inspector Treffy, William Ferguson. The committee in charge were: Evelyn C. Hamm, assistant coach; David Harrison, business manager; Arthur Faust, advertising manager; Peter Steele, stage manager; William Schmuck, electrician; Cora Gulick and Harry Bigley, properties; Marie Markley, decorations, and Herman Schreiner, decorations.

ALUMNI NOTES

D. E. Grove, '20, principal of Norwich High School, has tendered his resignation to the board of education of Norwich, N. Y., to accept the position of supervising principal at New Hartford. His work at Norwich has been of such high character that universal expressions of regret at losing him are heard from all sides. The acceptance of the position of supervising principal at New Hartford offers a much wider field for work with an increased salary as well. Mr. Grove is to be congratulated upon his good work.

The President's Award, a gold medal bearing the athletic emblem of Ursinus, to be awarded to the student who throughout the college course shall have won highest distinction in athletics.

Another important prize, announced in the new catalogue, is being permanently endowed and will be awarded for the first time at commencement in 1929. This is the Elizabeth Rockefeller McCain Prize of $50.00 in gold, founded by Col. George Nox McCain, Litt. D., of Philadelphia, in memory of his mother. Colonel McCain is a distinguished publicist and newspaper correspondent. In harmony with the professional ideals of the donor, this prize is awarded to that student who at the end of the Second year, shall have shown the greatest ability in the knowledge and use of the English language as indicated by work in composition and literature.

It is the hope of the faculty that prizes may early be established in the other departments of instruction so that in all fields of study there may be special recognition, through suitable gifts, of superior achievements.

INTERCOLLEGIATE COMMENT

European visitors to American universities express great wonder at the college spirit shown by our graduates. European universities receive no support from alumni, the little sentiment that does exist centering about fraternities and clubs rather than the university. This is blamed on the fact that the European universities are owned by the state, while those of this country have the rivalry of privately endowed colleges through which such spirit was first developed.

Graduate students instead of faculty members are now advisers of freshmen at Wisconsin. This new plan was adopted because graduate students are nearer of an age and, having just recently gone through similar problems, could give more practical and acceptable advice.

Absent-mindedness sometimes pays, Professor Arthur E. Holt of the University of Chicago Divinity School will testify. It paid him $75. Searched for valuables, after being kidnapped by two men and taken for a ride down a dark alley, Professor Holt was found to have only fifty cents in his pockets. Freed by the thwarted footpads, the professor reported the hold-up to the police. "I withdrew $75 from the bank today," he said, "but when I left home I forgot to take it with me."

More than 90 per cent of 3,500 alumni of the School of Mines, Engineering, and Chemistry at Columbia declared themselves glad they had taken engineering subjects. Only 6 per cent regretted the fact, while 65 per cent stated that engineering work in their belief should be preceded by an arts course.

Purdue's $180,000 armory was recently burned to the ground.

COLLEGE'S COST $300,000,000

The annual cost of collegiate education in the United States was put at $300,000,000 by Trevor Arnett, chairman of the commission of permanent and trust funds of the Association of American Colleges, at the recent annual meeting of the body in Atlantic City. At the same time, Mr. Arnett urged more generous private and State support for colleges, as well as more adequate fees from students.

According to a dispatch to the Christian Science Monitor, Mr. Arnett declared that thoroughly effective instruction could not be maintained at an expenditure per student annually below $250. The Haverford expenditure per student last year amounted to $1225, of which each student paid $682 for tuition, board, room rent and incidental expenses.

Mr. Arnett placed the value of physical properties of American colleges at a billion dollars, and their endowments at an additional billion. Haverford's endowment amounts to $3,790,713.35 (book value), according to the latest treasurer's report.
